Delaware Infant Practical Subject In Homemaker Class

NEWARK, DEL.—The University of Delaware has a "problem child."

Hoover, Charles P. Griffin IV, is not a problem in the usual sense of the word. No, indeed. He's practical.

Charles, a blue-eyed, one-year-old blond, is the son of Nell H. Griffin, assistant professor of home management in the university's school of home economics. Mrs. Griffin brought him here when she arrived to take up her teaching duties last fall, and installed him in the home management house on the campus.

Since then girl students in the course have shared with Mrs. Griffin in the daily care of Charles.

Says Mrs. Griffin:

"My son has made a great deal of progress and very definitely is not experienced on, despite the fact he is Delaware's 'first' home management baby."

The students take charge of Charles for a week at a time in rotation. Their first week at the home management house is spent helping Mrs. Griffin care for the child. It's really a week of allowing Charles to familiarize himself with the new students.

The girls living in the house do the buying (on a strict budget), cooking, serving, housekeeping—plus the care of the baby.

The girls plan their hours so that one always is with the baby while the others attend classes.

Mrs. Griffin says her students dress the baby, buy his clothes and put him to bed. Some of them—on their own initiative—make some of the child's smaller things like argyle socks and mittens.

Glass Blocks Offer Builder Advantages

Use Features Practical Feeder Barn Planning

This practical feeder barn, shown below, not only offers good ventilation, freedom from drafts, and abundant daylight, but is designed to cut maintenance costs as well.

Developed principally for dairy stock, it has a labor-saving floor arrangement with a feed room and silo convenient to the feeding alleys. Doors at either end provide ventilation through the litter alley to remove odors. Ample roof vents disperse summer heat, aid the circulation of air in winter as do louvres under the peak of the gabls.

Control over ventilation has been carefully planned to eliminate creeping drafts. Sliding doors insure a tight closure and the generous use of glass block panels minimizes drafts usually encountered with conventional windows. These panels are fitted with hinged sashes which are easily swung for ventilation. The glass blocks transmit an abundance of daylight. Even on cloudy days the barn is bright and cheerful.

As a barn material, glass block offers many advantages. Of hollow construction with a partial vacuum inside, the block has a high insulation factor which can help maintain heat of the barn in winter. This insulation value minimizes cold down drafts. Condensation and frosting are practically eliminated.

An all-important advantage in these days of high costs is the permanency of glass block panels. Set in mortar, the glass is impervious to weather and humidity, is unharmed by chemical disinfectants often required to maintain dairy sanitation. An occasional washdown with a hose is all that is required to keep the panel surfaces sparkling clean. Painting is never required.

Maintenance is also reduced by the liberal use of other long-wearing materials. Walls are of cinder or concrete block, the floor of poured concrete, and the roof of either a good grade of galvanized steel sheet or aluminum.

The floor plan has been developed for efficiency and functional use of space.

Know Your Pesticides

As every county agent will point out, it is profitable to the farmer to know how to choose and use pesticides properly.

There are many well known and many relatively new chemicals for controlling pests. Their strong points and their weak points should be compared before making a choice.

"It is important," the agents emphasize, "to be familiar with your pest problems and to recognize and follow reliable recommendations rather than mere reports and suggestions of untrained persons.

"Study the problems that may follow use of certain materials, such as residues and off-flavors. Consider timing of applications, dosages, methods of removing residues, etc., as a means of overcoming secondary problems. Be sure products you buy comply with all regulations.

"Accuracy of dosage is one of the fundamentals in the use of modern chemicals. Read labels and accompanying directions carefully.

Check Fire Equipment, Farmers Are Advised

Farmers are urged by county agents to check fire extinguishers to be certain they are approved.

These warnings are based on reports from Fire Protection Institute, a national fire safety organization, that many "unapproved" extinguishers have been made available during the past few years. It was pointed out that an undependable extinguisher is about as useful as a counterfeit dollar.

Letters

April 13, 1949.

Editor, Times-Virginian:-

I have talked with a number of people recently who seem under the impression that, at a recent meeting of the Town Council, I opposed a plan for providing water for the Garment Company, which was not the case.

The facts are as follows: several weeks ago the matter of providing water for them came before the Council and the members unanimously voted to build a tank and provide the necessary water pressure for them. At a later meeting, held on the 4th inst., quotations were given the Council on various size tanks, without foundation, and shortly thereafter a motion was offered that an election be called for the purpose of issuing bonds in the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars to pay for the project. I voted against this motion because I was not satisfied that the specified sum was sufficient for the project; I did not feel that we had sufficient information as to the cost of the other items entering into the project to determine the exact amount needed. Also, there were other phases of the situation that I thought should be considered before fixing the amount of the bond issue.

My vote was, in no way, against building the tank, as that had already been decided, but was intended to be against the matter of fixing the amount of the bond issue until the matter could be investigated further. I realize the value of the Garment Company to the community and am glad to cooperate with them in any way I can.

Cordially yours,
C. S. JENKINS.

Poodle Living With Lioness Is "Top Dog" in Frankfurt

FRANKFURT.—A black poodle with cocky ears is top dog at the Frankfurt zoo. He lives in a cage with a lioness.

Bonzo, about the size of a prewar beef roast, is the roommate of Brigitta, a lioness who could polish him off with one bite. They grew up together. Bonzo's mother was foster mother to the lion cub. That was in 1947. As she grew, Brigitta tolerated the other pups, but took a special liking to Bonzo. When it came time to put Brigitta on a raw meat diet, Bonzo stayed on.

Today, the poodle struts around the cage. Just when Brigitta sends shivers down spectators' backs, Bonzo ruins the act by pawing her playfully. When children stare at the big lioness, Bonzo is likely to chew one of her ears.

Brigitta usually ignores these sallies, but it is hard to be a tawny menace when even a dog don't believe it. On the other hand, the lioness follows standard lion practice of pacing to and fro back of the bars. When Bonzo gets in the way, he is bounced off a restless knee or shouldered into a corner. The pair form the highlight of a zoo which is coming back rapidly after near destruction in war bombing. The director, Dr. Bernhard Grzimeck, says, "That Bonzo, keeps us busy. Just because he lives with a lion, he thinks he has to eat like one."

Grzimeck had a big problem rebuilding the animal population, almost wiped out in the war. But a little buying and bartering have gone a long way. The zoo now equals most in western Germany.
